

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

MONDAY EVENING, OCT'R. 2, 1882.

ONE of the many ways by which General Manone and his demagogues attempt to excite the enmity of their ignorant followers against the democrats, is the absurd assertion that the leaders of the latter are "aristocrats," who seize and hold all the offices wherever their party is dominant. The utter falsity of this assertion is established in every city and county in the State in which the democrats have, the majority of the voters. Alexandria is a good but only a fair field in which to apply the test of well-known and patent facts to the case. It has a large democratic majority, and that majority has the disposal of many offices. Is a single one of these offices, from the highest to the lowest, filled by an "aristocrat?" is one of them filled by "ring" influence or by boss rule? and can any man, no matter what his politics may be, say that one of them is unfairly held, or held by any other means than "a free vote and a fair count?" If an "aristocrat" be found among the officers, or if any man can say that one of them holds his office by any other means than by a fair expression of the preference of a majority of the voters of the city, then two and two make five, and self-evident truths have become valueless as proof. Not only is it untrue to say that the democrats place aristocrats in office, but the very idea that there are aristocrats in this country is ridiculous, and the acme of grotesqueness is reached when aristocracy is ascribed to men who not only call themselves democrats but who glory in their democracy and have constantly advocated its principles during their whole lives. But, if such an impossible thing as an aristocratic class could exist in this country, who, until two years ago, would have been more cager to defend it than William E. Cameron and John S. Wise?

by the republicans for the sole purpose of delaying the adoption of any measure of relief from the onerous burdens imposed for his present candidate in the Richmond upon the people for the benefit of a few rich | district. monopolists in the North, and composed of men committed to the continuance, if not to the increase, of the burden complained of, having now completed a luxurious junket. jury in the Star route case. There is no neing tour at the expense of the taxpayers, will, there is every reason to believe, instruct its clerk to prepare a report recommending that the tariff be kept at its present rate, or be raised, on all articles manufactured in this country, and that the manufacturers be still further "protected" by removing or reducing the duty on some classes of raw material. The commission would, if it could, make every poor man in the country continue to pay, as he is now doing, double for every necessary of life, and that, too, for no other rational purpose than to increase the profits of the rich monopolists; for the Government has no legitimate need for the millions that are pouring into the Treasury every day, made up of the extra cost put upon every article the poor man has to buy. Were it not for the present "protective" tariff, which protects the owners of factories and mills, but oppresses the men who work for them, the cost of living would not be half what it is. But if the tariff were reduced the monopolist would not be able to contribute so largely to republican election funds, and there would not be a large unnecessary surplus in the Treasury to tempt star route and other thieves.

GENERAL MAHONE'S Washington organ

"The New York republican convention "was fairly constructed" and that "there

·was no irregularity." The New York Herald says: "The vote in the State committee which elected Mr. Madden was eighteen to fourteen. At least three of these eighteen were obtained by fraud and would not have been counted for Mr. Madden had they been honestly cast. Transferring these from the column of dishonesty to the column of honesty and the result would be seventeen for Mr. Pitts and fifteen for Madden. This proves conclusively that Madden was not and could not have been honestly and fairly elected president of the convention. It proves conclusively that the administration faction secured control of the convention by fraud. Without such preliminary success fraudulently obtained Judge Folger would not and could not have been nominated. The nomination was the result of fraud and

district attorney for New York, says: "It is impossible to reach any other conclusion than that fraud entered into the nomination made for governor by the republican party at Saratoga. It was unfairly effected. It is vain for any republican to pretend to be blind to the facts. I cannot conceive that I can serve my country or my party by shutting my eyes to them."

But the same organ referred to also says: "It is agreed among republicans that public obligations are sacred."

And then it immediately advocates the Riddleberger bill, which impairs the validity of the contract Virginia made with her creditors. What the General's organs say amounts to very little with intelligent peo-

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] Washington, D. C., October 2, 1882.-J. Hale Sypher, a well-known republican politician of Louisiana, who returned here this morning from his State, where he has been in the interest of Senator Kellogg, who is now a candidate for the House of Representatives in the district once represeted by Mr. Acklen, says there is no use in attempting to conceal the fact that Kellogg will be defeated. The three candidates in the district are Acklen, democrat; Kellogg, regular republican, and Beatty, independent republican, the latter of whom Mr. Sypher says will be elected because the democrats will support him in preference to their own candidate, with whom they are disgusted, and the republican vote of the district is so split that the democratic votes he will receive will be sufficient to elect him. Mr Bentty, when he comes to Congress, will oppose the Administration because the republican Congressional committee has gone out of its way to endorse Kellogg.

Langston, the colored man who is to go to Virginia to stump the State for Mahone, is U.S. minister to Hayti, and is drawing a salary of $4,700 for attending to the duties of that position. But he has just as much right to leave his post and stump Virginia as U S. District Attorney Wise has, or as Senator Mahone had to leave his place in the Senate for five month's to "run" the Legislature in

The election in Ohio will take place tomorrow week. Intelligence from that State to-day is to the effect that Senator Sherman, who has recently been doing what he could to help the republican cause has finished his short campaign, and confesses to his friends that he is by no means sanguine of the result. Democrats say they will certainly gain the two Cincinnati Congressmen, and three or four in other parts of the State.

There are but three Senators in the city to-day, Mahone, who lives here, and Van-Wyck, of Nebraska, and Jones, of Florida, but the latter will leave to-night.

Among the strangers in the city to-day is General George Mason Graham, of Louisiana, formerly Adjutant-General of that General Mahone poses before those too silly or too ignorant to know better, as a laborer for the people's benefit, but it is esti-mated here by those who have kept "the run of him" that he has netted over a quarter of a million out of his party, exclusive of the large amount he has made on the bonds and stocks of the State and her railroads by means of his previous knowledge of the legislation that affected their value.

It was stated in this correspondence last Saturday that a rumor was current here to the effect that certain Mahoneites from the Richmond district had been here the day before conferring with General Mahone about withdrawing Mr. J. Ambler Smith, his congressional candidate in that district. It appears that a dispatch to the same effect, but containing the names of the parties referred to, was sent to the Richmond Dispatch, but the truth of that dispatch being denied, Mr. John Woltz has telegraphed to the editor of the Dispatch that he wrote it but at the dictation of Mr. Smith. It is said here that this will stimulate General Mahone's desire to substitute somebody else

It is understood that District Attorney Corkhill is now talking about arresting the parties whom the Star routers ridiculously charged with having attempted to bribe the cessity for such an arrest, for the parties re-ferred to are anxious to be tried in order that they may show the character of the ground upon which the charges rest.

Lieutenant Danenhower was put upon waiting orders this morning. This increases his pay while he is on shore. He intends making a lecturing tour, and will commence it in Brooklyn to-night.

The political news from New York grows more and more cheering to the democrats, and their only fear now is that Mr. Folger's long delayed acceptance of the republican nomination for Gove nor may never come. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher's emphatic opposition to him is another sore sign of defeat should be accept the nomination.

There was a report circulating among the Virginians here to-day that Mr. Alexander Hunter had been appointed to a clerkship in the Treasury Department but it was incor-

John Wise was in the city last night, but as he was "booked" for Charlottesville to-day, he doubtless made a flying visit here to draw inspiration from the Boss, who still holds out at the Portland. Paul, who should be at Charlottesville with Wise, goes to Franklin C. II. to help Sims. It is possible O'Ferrall will meet Wise.

A Republican Preacher on Mr. Blaine. In his sermon yesterday on "The Power of God's Anger," Dr. Rankin of the First Congregational Church in Washington, referring to Mr. Blaine's proposition to help Virginia to pay her debt from the national treasury, said: "This government, in order to save its life, adopted certain warmeasures; that is, certain measures to show the power of its wrath and cripple its enemies. This queen of States beyond the Potomac, this State of Presidents, this State of Washington and Jefferson, and Madison and Monroe, all of whom were twice selected for the highest place in the gift of the people; this State, whose honored sons sat sixty out of the first sixty-four years of the Nation's life in the executive chair; this State, whose greatest military genius led the armies which rose up to destroy us, and whose capital aspired to be the capital of a rival republic ; this State was dismembered; her mountain regions, rich in ores, which God had stored up there for freedom's uses, were set apart to constitute a new territory against the day when the dation should need her help. And now it is seriously proposed to take money from the United States Treasury and pay back to her a portion of what she lost. It certainly is not the kind of economy which God has administered in this world. When the great battle-fields of the war shall give back their dead to father and mother, to wife and children; when all that our boys in blue suffered in camp and in hospital, in prison and on the when all that this government has expended, and is expending, and is expected to ex-pend because of the war shall be blotted from the page of history and shall appear as a distempered dream, then, and not till then, let Virginia come forward and be pentioned at the hands of the United States Treasurer for what she lost in the war. I do not say this in any unkindness to Virginia. I rejoice that she has such a future before her. But I believe that every war measure was an act of moral necessity, as well as military; was part of the pressure of God's hand of retribution upon the heads of all who had been in complicity with the system of slavery. And the man who undertakes to lift that hand will be likely to find

GENERAL MAHONE not only removes Virginia postmasters who refuse to contribute to his election fund, but he obliterates the offices when they are not remunerative enough to stand his assessment. Great is the authority of the boss.

The work of revision, it was reported, had progressed to Psalms, which have already been revised four times. twice in this country and twice in England. The songs of Solomon will come next, followed by Ecclesiastes, which will all but complete the work, and will take about a year yet to accomplish. Professor Meade, of Virginia, and Dr. Hare, of Philadelphia, Dr. Packard of the Episcopal Theological Seminary of Virginia, and Dr. Donaul, of Brooklyn, were present with suggestions as to the best way to advance the work. Nine clergymen are now engaged on it.

Such desecration calls for the condemnation and prosecution of the perpetrators.

Mr. S. A. Plummer, a prominent citizen of Petersburg, and plantiff in the mandamus case from Petersburg now before the Supreme Court, died in that city on Saturday night last. His death it is supposed, will render a decision of the Supreme Court in the mandamus case unnecessary-that is to say, that even should the case be decided in and harmony. Of General Stonewall Jackson he said : "While perfectly free from all puritanical cant, he never loses sight of the fact that he is in God's hands. Mr. Oakley says he "promptly refused to lend himself to any such dishonorable scheme."

Congressman Fulkerson, who is a canlidate for Congress in the ninth district now announces that if re-elected to Congress he will vote with the democrats on all national questions. It is understood that State Senator Newberry, who is also a candidate for Congress, will withdraw in favor of Fulkerson, thus leaving the contest between the latter and Bowen, coalition candidate, with chances largely in favor of families have left the city on account of the Fulkerson.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher delivered a political sermon in Plymouth Church last night. He deprecated the participation of the national administration in state and local politics, and lauded the services rendered the State by Governor Cornell. He paid a tribute to the character of Secretary Folger, but condemned the manner in which his nomination was secured. For that reason, no national principle was involved he thought young men would never get a better opporunity of administering a reproof to the parly than at present. He said: "May my right hand forget its cunning if I cast my vote for a man nominated by avarice or re-

An old colored attendant, who had the Fredericksburg Star says, served in the Williamsburg Asylum for twenty-six years, has been dismissed by Mr. Dick Wise (Readjuster), Superintendent, and brother of John S. Wise, Mahone's candidate for Congress. The cause of dismissal was that he would not desert his friend and party, J. M. Dawson, the Straightout Republican candidate for Congressman-at-large. This faithful old colored attendant was kept in his place when the Asylum was in charge of men of democratic proclivities. The Mahoneites embrace the colored man when they can use him, but let him oppose them an their worst treatment of him seems to them to be right-

Brady is making appointments for him in all portions of the State, and particularly in the Norfolk, Petersburg and Fredericksburg districts. It is also stated, that Governor Cameron will make several speeches during the canvass. It is said that he will speak in the valley and southwest, and possibly in Richmond. The coalitionists are actively at work all over the State, and their organization was probably never more thorough. Reports from the southern counties of the State indicate that many conservative readjusters who have heretofore voted with Mahone will this year vote with the democrats.

> GEN. PRYOR KNOCKS ANTHONY BARRETT Down. -The convention had hardly been called to order in Shakspeare Hall, Syracuse, last week, before there was a row in the Brooklyn delegation. It occurred in the back part of the hall, near the entrance. General Roger A. Pryor was urging the propriety of placing General Slocum on the ticket for Congressman at large, when exceptions were taken by Anthony Barrett, a well known peace-and-harmony democrat. He declared that such a nomination would be an insult to General Slocum, and animadverted strongly on what he called General Pryor's presumption in making such a proposal. The dispute grew hot, and bad blood was aroused. The peace-and-harmony democrat finally called General Pryor a d-d rebel. Thereupon the General hauled off with his right hand, took Mr. Barrett between the eyes, and sent him to grass. The blow knocked all peace and harmony proclivities out of Mr. Barrett. He peeled himself of his coat and was preparing to knock the General out, when he was seized by other members of the delegation who were acting in the real interests of peace those surrounding him, saying: "Gentle-men, you have all witnessed this trouble. Under the provocation I feel myself perfectly justified in acting as I have acted. He then walked away, accompanied by friends. The Brooklyn delegation and all who witnessed the assault justified General Pryor.-N. Y. Times.

PINKERTON'S REMARKABLE CAPTURE OF A EANK ROBBER.—A Chicago special to an evening paper says : "Pat. J. Dunkle, of Des Moines, Iowa, formerly traveling salesman order has been issued on the State Treasurer for Wannamaker, of Philadelphia, the mysterious fourth and last of the Kewanee Bank robbers, has just been captured on the plains near Battle Mount, Montana, by Detective Pinkerton, and $1,500 in cash recovered. He is the short, thick-set man who so cruelly maltreated Miss Palmer, assistant to Cashier Pratt. His share of the plunder was $4,000. The detective tracked him to Des Moines, St. Paul, Sioux City, Fort Dodge, Billings, and Miles City, Montana, following all his sudden changes, and finally purchased a horse at the end of the Northern Pacific Railroad and pursued Dunkle 300 miles on horseback into the wilderness, overtaking him eventually on the plains, both armed to the teeth. The detective succeeded in getting the drop on Dunkle, and ordered him to throw up his hands. Dunkle obeyed, and submitted to being handcuffed. The detective returned with his prisoner to Battle Mount, sold both horses, and the two will arrive here on Sunday."

AN INTOLERABLE AND DANGEROUS NUI-SANCE.-I earnestly hope the Mayor will make an example of some of the ball pitchers in our public streets ere some inoffensive child is stunned. On a sidewalk this afternoon, and not far from police headquarters, either, a ball was being knocked with a bat. It is a great annoyance to adults to be compelled to be ever on the alert to escape beng struck in the face by a ball thrown by some idle, thoughtless boy. There seems to be a disposition not to arrest juvenile lawbreakers because their parents will be compelled to pay the fines for them-which they should be made to do if by their loose reins their offsprings are to become law-breakers.
